

INSPIRE Trainee Co-Editor: Vitreoretinal Volunteer opportunity

Name of position: INSPIRE Trainee Co-Editor: Vitreoretinal

Start date: As soon as possible

Term: 2 years

Number of vacancies: 1

Meetings: Occasional online meetings or webinars with Vitreoretinal editorial team

Contact: Gareth Brennan, gareth.brennan@rcophth.ac.uk

About the position

INSPIRE is the College's online learning platform which aims to provide structured learning pathways and coordinated educational programmes to support life-long clinical learning and professional development.

As an INSPIRE Trainee Co-Editor you will need to be committed to and contribute to the platform as a whole. You will support the Editor in leading the Vitreoretinal editorial team and oversee the creation, quality control, and uploading of Vitreoretinal content to INSPIRE. You will receive specific training on the use of the platform required to become an Editor.

You will work as part of a team with the Vitreoretinal Editor, Vitreoretinal Instructors and contributors, and College staff to contribute to the overall direction of development of the platform, promote its work, and to maximise its potential.

Criteria for position

- Trainee on the OST or OLT Programmes
- Member of the College (Fellow, Member, Affiliate Member, Associate Member)
- Registration GMC, with Licence/Fitness to Practice Up-to-date appraisal and revalidation
- Demonstrable commitment to continuing professional development
- Clinical experience in the UK
- Delivery of postgraduate and other relevant teaching
- Active involvement in teaching ophthalmology
- Ability to communicate using good written and verbal skills with all stakeholders, eg: learners, educators and colleagues
- Ability to work to tight timescales
- Video editing skills are desirable but not essential

Benefits

By volunteering with the College as an INSPIRE Trainee Co-Editor, you can play an active role in quality assuring, curating and creating educational material for Ophthalmologists and Eyecare Professionals in the UK and overseas. You will have the opportunity to work with colleagues, staff and external organisations to develop your leadership, teamwork and subject knowledge, as well as building your professional network. As part of this, we will also provide you with professional development opportunities to support you in your role.
